Never run into danger when you can possibly avoid it.

The path of sorrow, and that path alone
Leads to the land, where sorrows are unknown

They that go down to the sea in ships that do business in great waters. These see the works of the Lord, and his wonders in the deep.

PSALM. CVII.

Whatever ye would desire men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them.

Banks of the Schuylkill

On the banks of the Schuylkill so pleasant & gay
There blossomed between I & love I spent there the day
When he came down the hill through the willow tree
And the stream formed a mirror for my true love & me
On a spot of green clover we sat ourselves down
Not surging the greatest of monarchs that's crown'd
My name in the sand with his finger he drew
And he swore by the stream he would ever prove true
To which I believ'd the gay pride of my fair
I gazed on his face while he plac'd with me fair
He need not have told me his love with a sigh
For the Schuylkill secures my dear fellow to me
Oft times he told me the stories of love
He would sing me a song my affections to move
His lips were sweetest my hand gently pressed
On the banks of the Schuylkill where Jesse was blest
Whenever we have this enchanting retreat
With blushes she says when next shall we meet
Next Sunday he says if the weather proves clear
On the banks of the Schuylkill I'll meet you my dear
Now all these innocent pleasures are o'er
The morning sun can please me no more
Since the banks of the Schuylkill have lost all their charms
And the soldiers have torn my dear boy from my arms
But should ever I clasp him again to my heart
No more shall my true love and I ever part
No more shall the war take my true love away
And the banks of the Schuylkill shall never be gay

Farewell

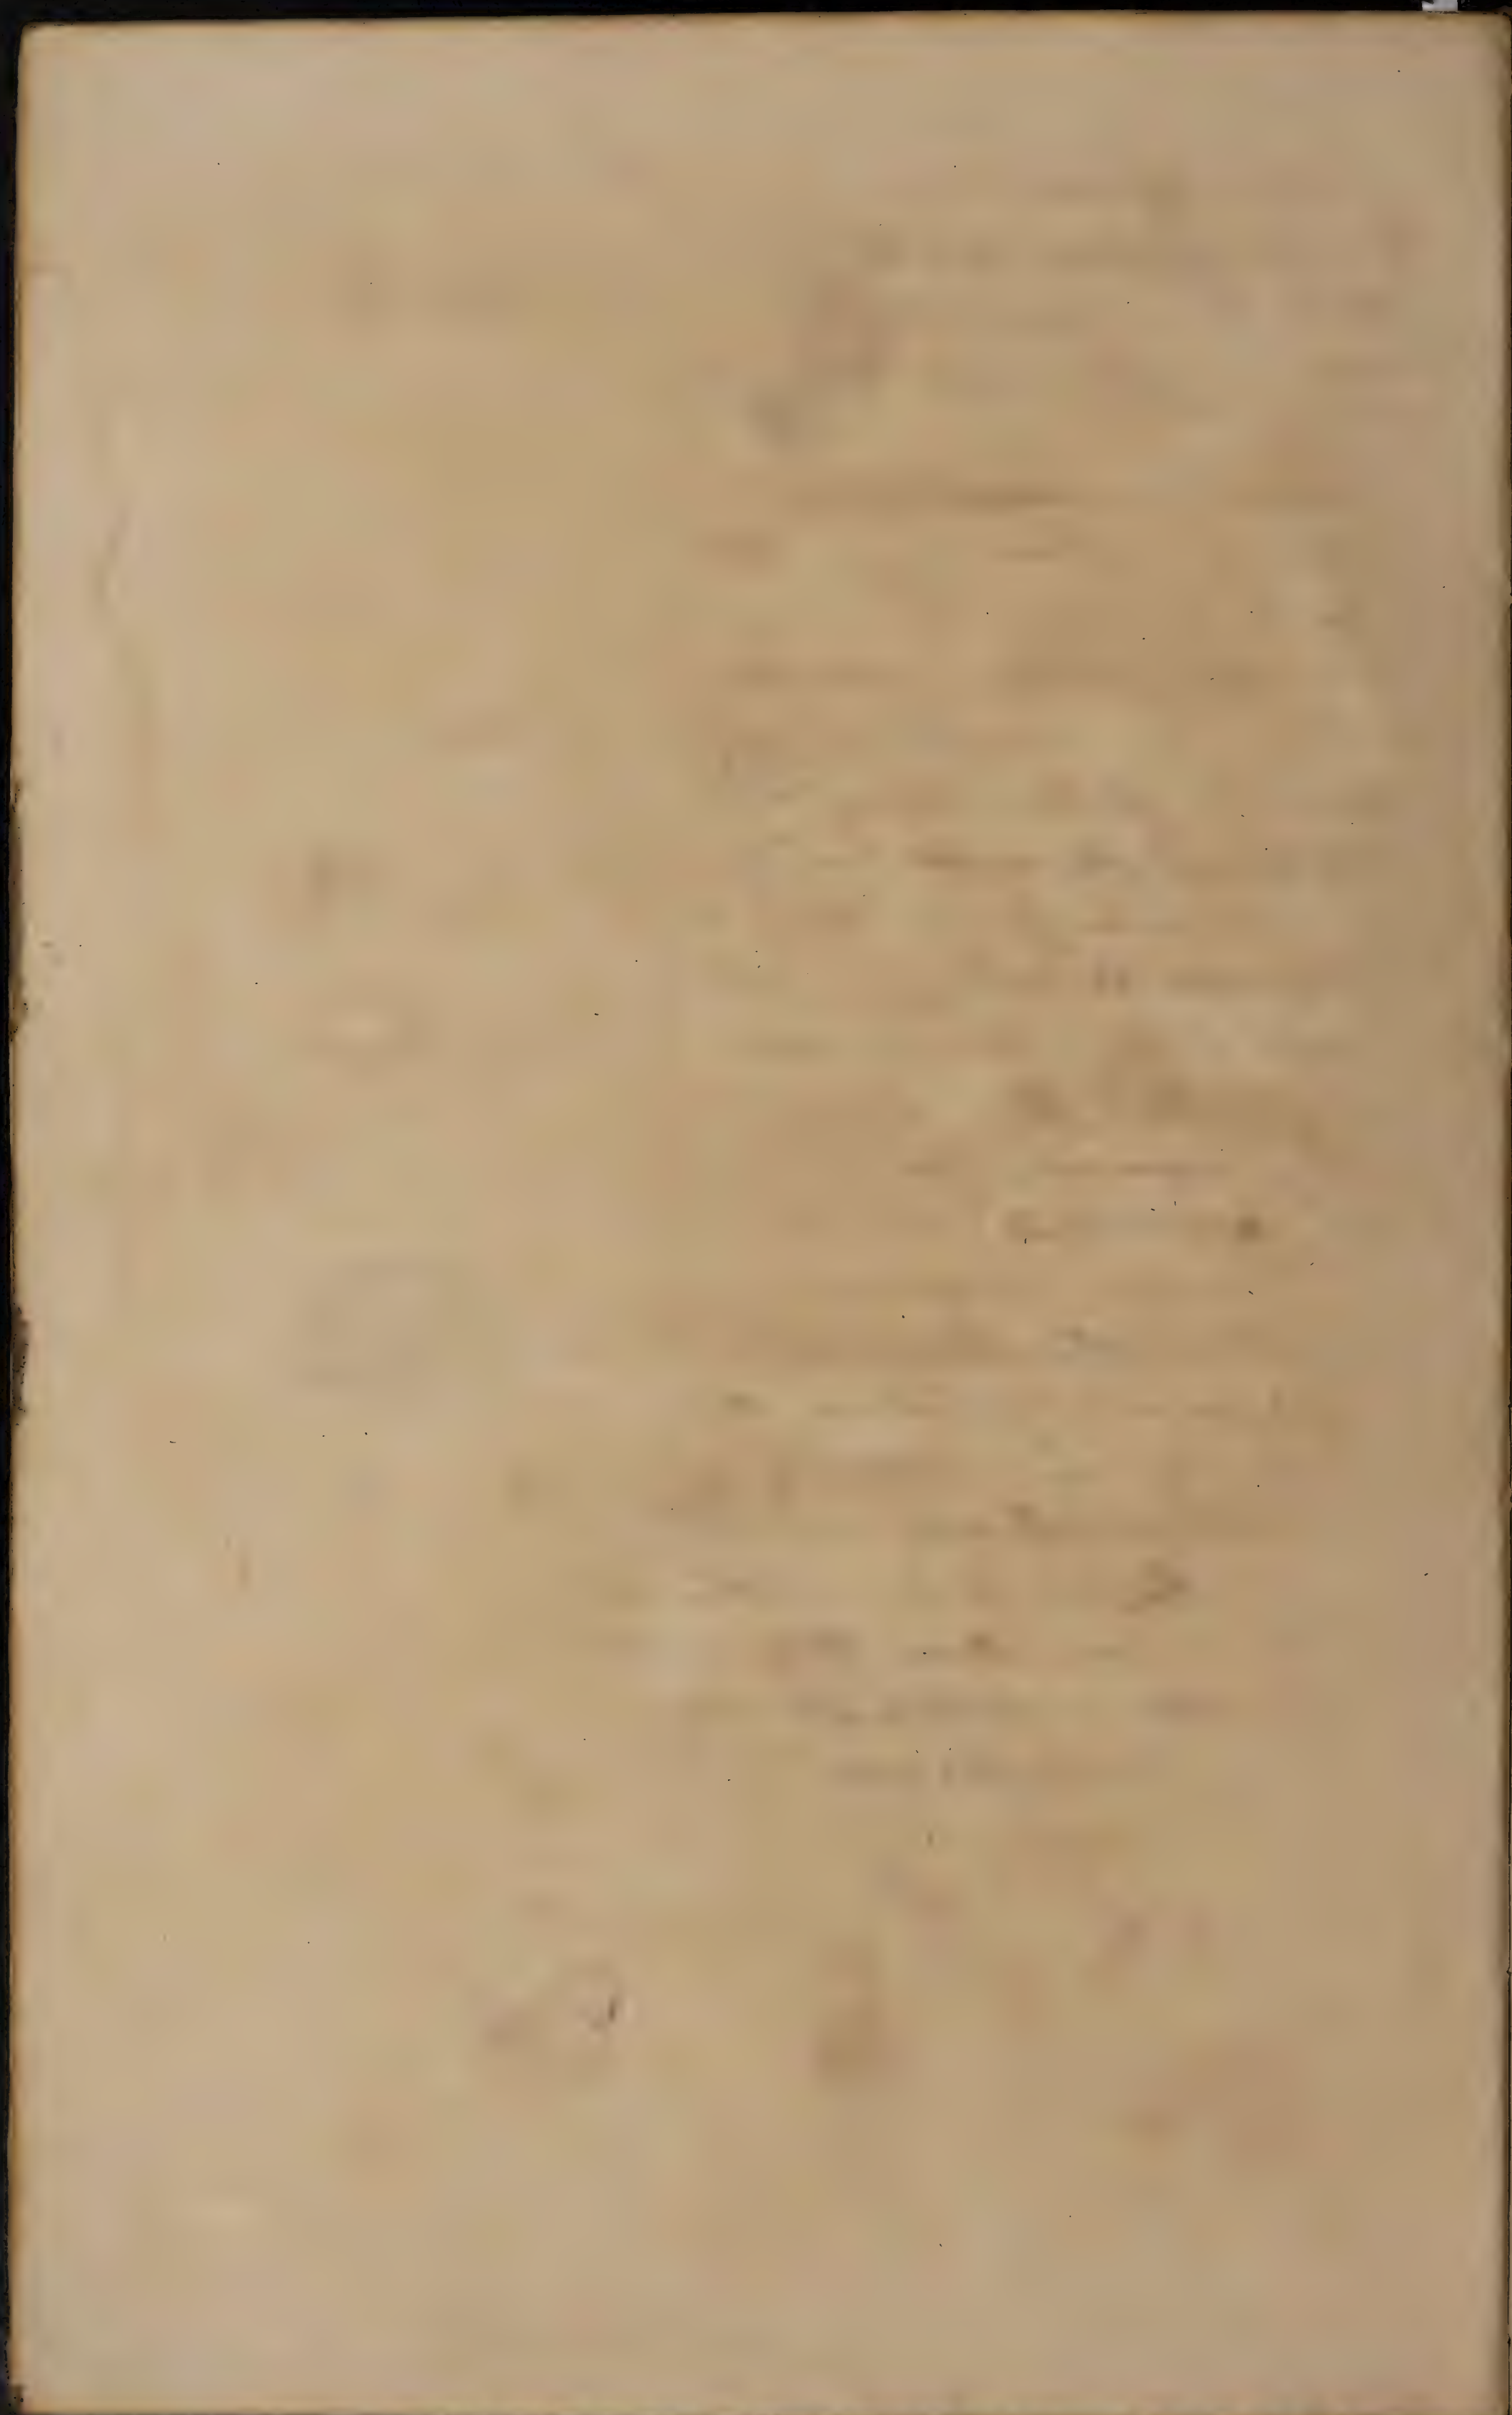

Farewell mother tears now streaming
Down my pale and tender cheeks
While I am gone and you are left
Scarcely the farewell can I speak

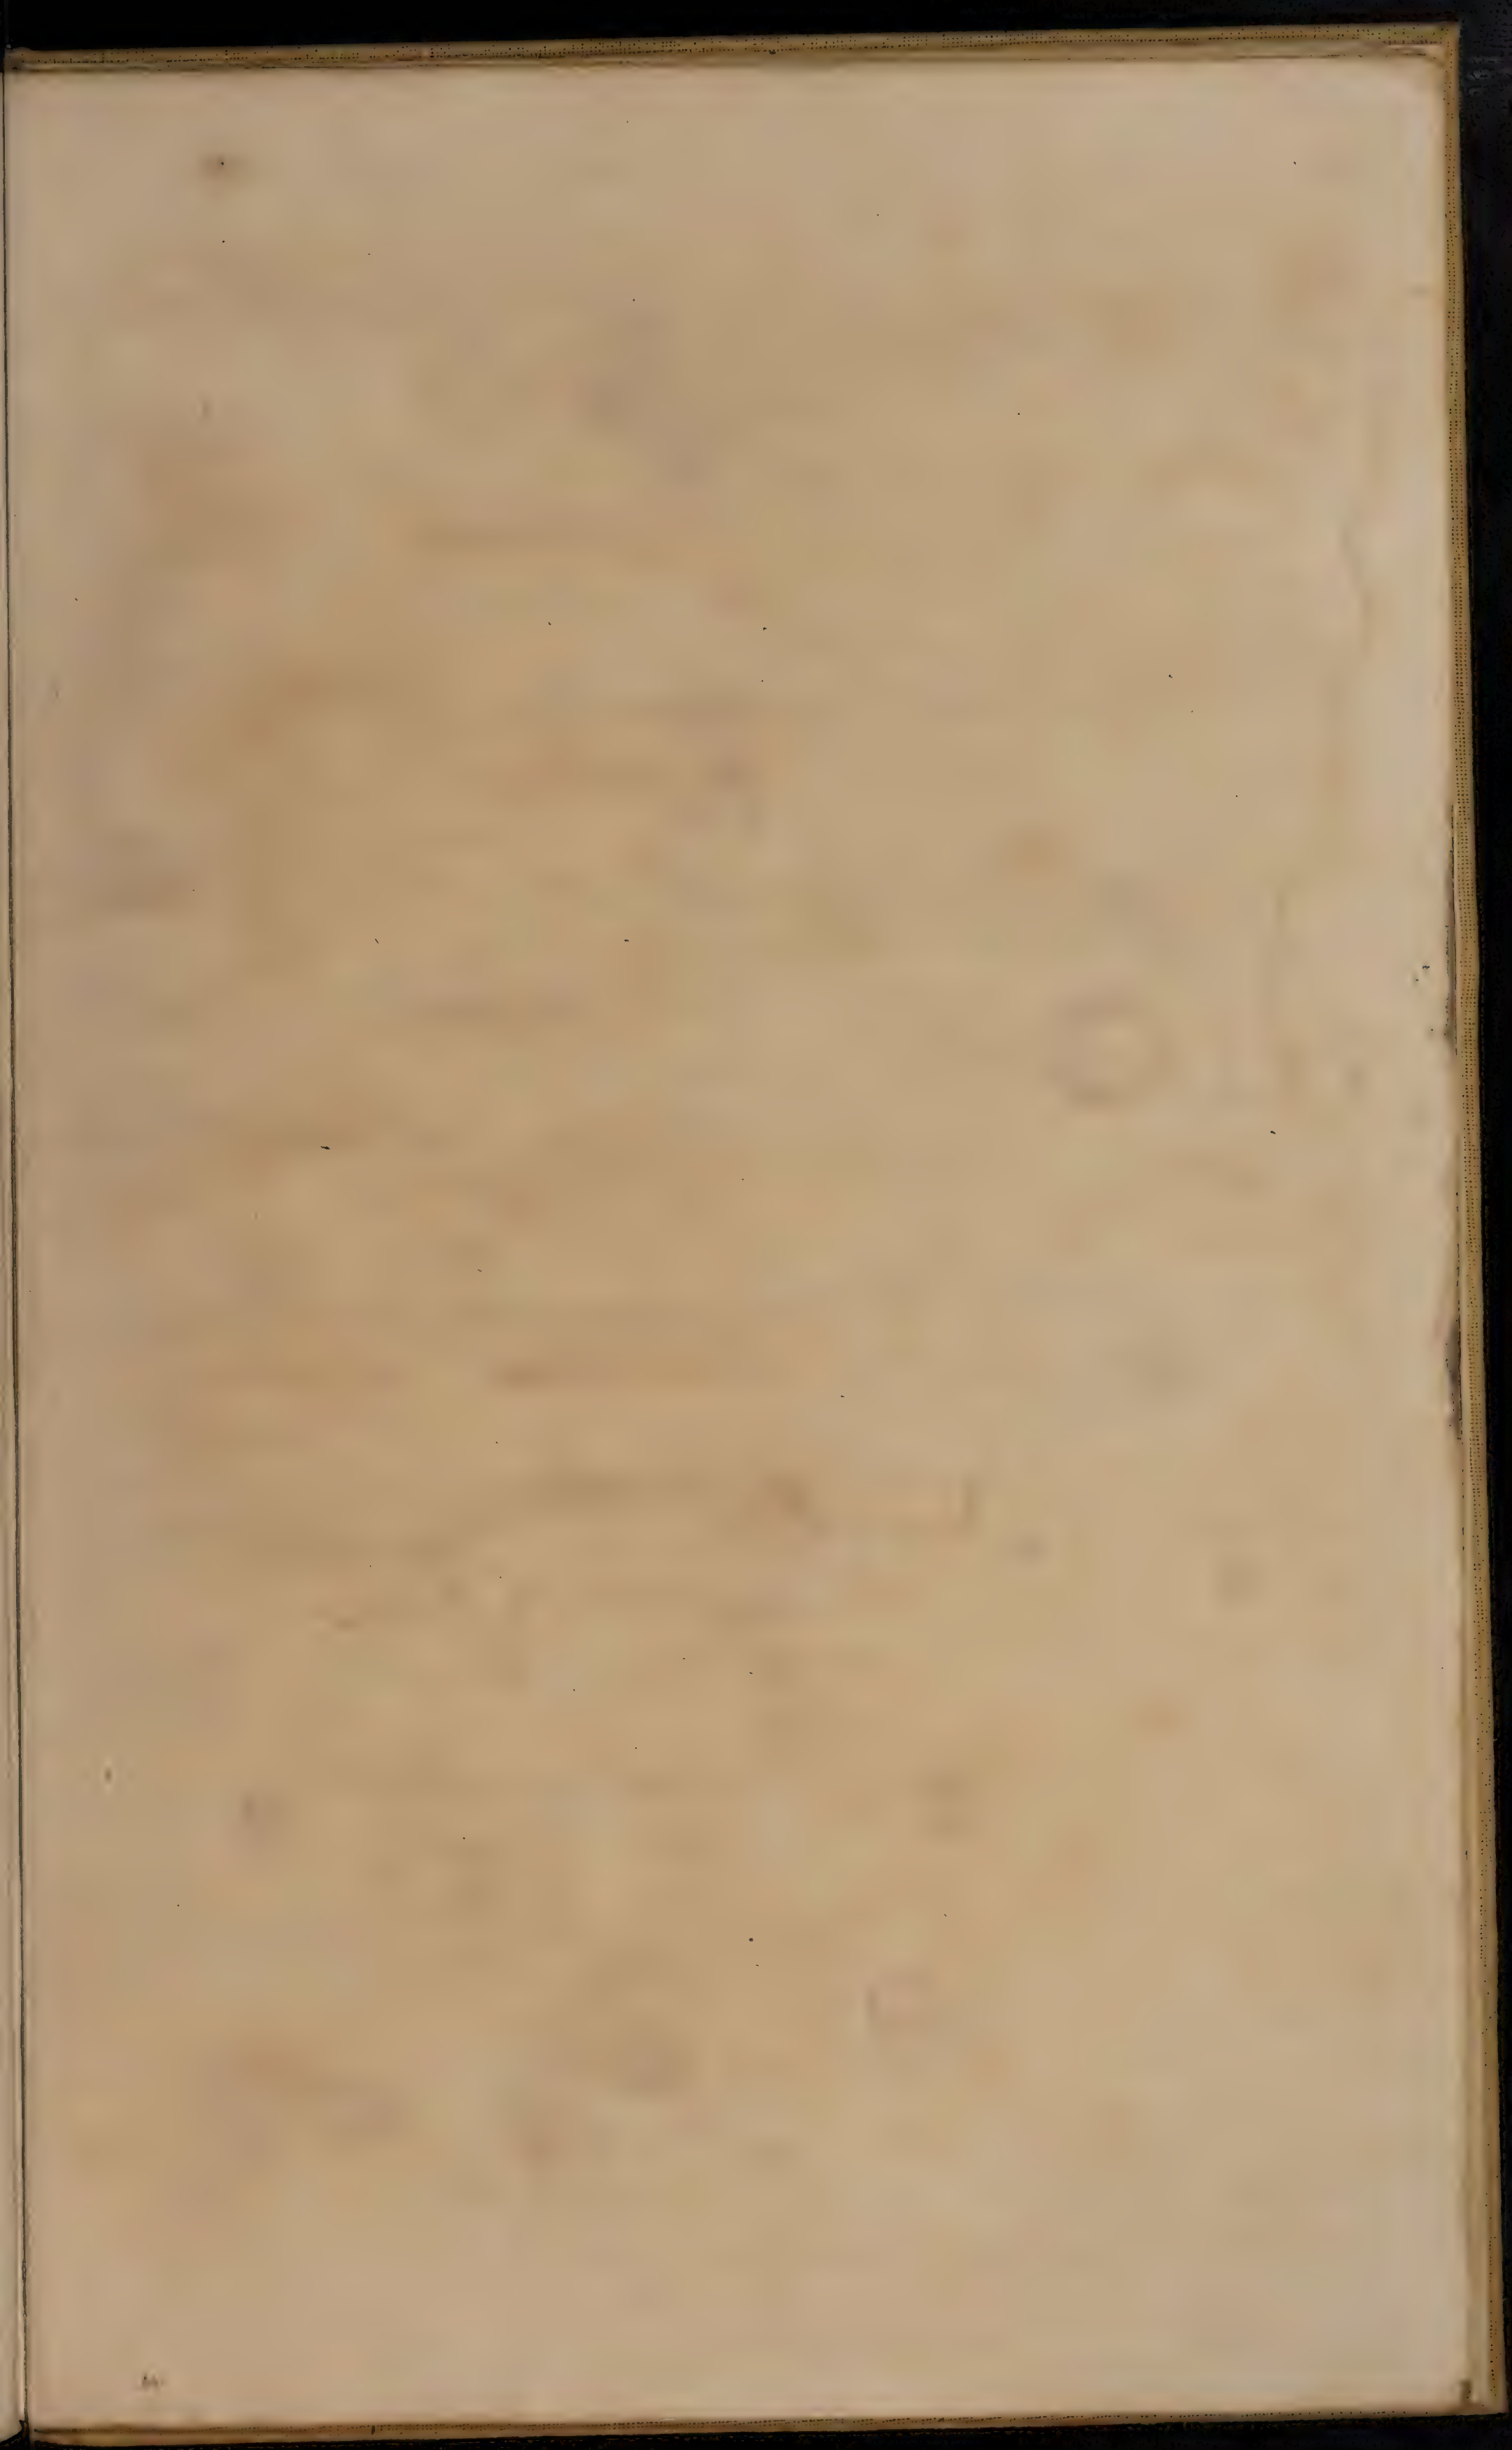

Farewell mother now I leave thee
Hope and fear my breast would Be to trust who may, however true
Farewell mother, fare thee well

Farewell father thou art leaving
Yet there's sadness on thy brow
Turning me from that beguiling
Tenderness to which I go

Farewell father thou didst bless me
On my lips thy name could tell
He may wound who can caress me
Farewell guardian forgettable

Farewell sister thou art leaving
Leaving me in affliction deep
Wishing joy in our divorce
Which a blessed bride should keep Farewell love and gentle sister
Love not now dear than words can tell
Farewell mother, sister Brother
All beloved ones farewell

The - Message - Address To His - Master

When I am sick and weary
I shall surely think of you
When I am that strong & happy
Or in the evening I shall

I shall think of you
When flowers perfume the breeze
Or when the sun is by my side
But still I must come to you

I shall think, too, when the stars above
Out on the night sky
Of you, who seem to be
In the darkness that I see at night

When I see that in the light
I am a child of your love
That I am as it were
When I am in the light above

And still I am in the light
The light and the dark
And still I am in the light
The light and the dark

The message is the same
That I am in the light
The message is the same
That I am in the light

The message is the same
That I am in the light
The message is the same
That I am in the light

1. Dark moon

The moon 300 miles distant
By looking on the pole
Whose star will guide him to his next House the ballast will

Another sight in need "sorrow"
How long he left behind
The ship rules on the day. To know
Things found there left his mind.

2. Their joy and sorrows hopes and fears
Are transient as the wind
And light in hope of a better future
Are children of the wind

Anticipation, and on your feet made
Still. Land there are the way
And so for me - my soul was made
To seek another day

My spirit & tears trace that shore
A wanderer through it he
And hopes to meet me, but in vain
Grown all at love forever there

The Cause

The beam to its silent course
 Dips, quarts, and stands
 Though from its fulcrum the mass
 Beneath the beam has moved

The awful spirit of the deep
 Thro' his sea caverns is heard
 And there are voices for whose message
 The coming, the bright, the fair,

Which he never vainly did
 Bid the deep waves below him,
 The spears of his old age are blessed
 And there is peace.

The earth has quaked beneath his feet
 And all its powers
 But powerful things are under him
 Beneath its dark blue waves of the Sun

In the breast of the billow
The silver moon lay
Unmuffled the mirror
Unbroken the ray;
Till the dappled light from above
Snept over the stream
And broke the repose
Of the wave and the beam

Like the beam on the billow
Love's spirit will rest
Pure, peaceful and holy
In fond woman's breast
Till passions, with leathings
Have fanned into flame
To illumine her pathway
Or perish in shame.
